

Howard University Statement of Financial Resources

1. Listed below are the estimated fees for international students at Howard University. Tuition and fees are shown below for the academic year only (August – May) and do not include the summer sessions. The living expenses shown are for a 12-month period. The figures are for the student and do not include spouses or children.
2. When you complete the reverse side of this form, review carefully all the financial resources available to you to be sure that the total amount covers the expenses shown below for the school/college you wish to attend. You cannot depend upon employment to cover the costs of attending the university. Immigration laws allow students in good standing and who have been at Howard for at least two semesters to apply for off-campus employment. Applying for this work permit is very complicated. You may apply to the University for financial assistance after your first year of study at Howard, but you will compete for assistance with all other students who apply. In reviewing your financial situation, you should NOT count on either employment or financial aid from the University.
3. To obtain a visa, you will have to present to the U.S. Embassy in your country evidence that you have financial resources to support yourself while studying in the United States. Funds for the entire first year of your studies must be immediately available, and you must have reasonable assurance that the funds will be available for subsequent years.
4. COMPLETE THE REVERSE SIDE OF THIS FORM, indicating the exact funds available to you and the sources of those funds. You and your sponsor must sign this form. If you have a scholarship from some source, attach an official letter which explains the terms of the award. This document must be current and not addresses to another college or university.
